Unlike the prior quarter, the Boca Raton single-family market showed more price growth than the condo market in the final quarter of 2017. Condo median sales price was unchanged at $205,000 while single-family median sales price rose 13.4% to $450,000 respectively from the year-ago quarter. The market pace for both property types was faster than the same period a year ago with the single-family market seeing a larger change. The absorption rate, the number of months to sell all listing inventory at the current rate of sales, was 9.1% faster for condos and 14.6% faster for single families respectively from the year-ago period. The pace of the luxury condo market, representing the top 10% of sales, slowed 23.2% to 17 months and the pace of the luxury single-family market moved 28.9% faster to 21.9 months. The luxury market price trends were largely influenced by the change in average sales size from the year-ago quarter. The average sales size of a luxury condo fell 18% to 2,554 square feet while the median sales price fell 25% to $825,000. The average sales size of a luxury single family rose 15.4% to 6,858 square feet while the median sales price jumped 52.7% to $2,000,000.

LUXURY

- Condo prices skewed lower by sharp decline in average sales size
- Condo sales and marketing time increased
- Single-family price rose sharply as average sales size jumped
- Single-family sales were unchanged as listing inventory fell
