The Queens housing market sales market took a break from setting borough-wide price records although price trend indicators continued to rise. The number of sales slid for the second quarter and listing inventory expanded for the fourth consecutive quarter on a year over year basis. Median sales price jumped 13.4% to $550,000 and average sales price increased 11.9% to $624,554 respectively from the prior year quarter to the second highest on record. The median sales price for co-ops jumped 14.3% to $280,000, and 1-3 families increased 4.6% to $680,000 respectively from the year-ago quarter to new records. The median sales price for the following regions set new records: South rose

7.8% to $485,000; West increased 8.5% to $682,500. The luxury market, representing the top 10% of all sales and began at $1,050,000 in the first quarter, also set record price trend indicators. Luxury average sales price rose 6.8% to a record $1,395,556, and luxury median average sales price increased 10% to $1,300,000 respectively from the prior-year quarter. The new development condo market played a role in the pattern of record-setting price trend indicators over the past year as market share and average sales size expanded. New development condo closings more than doubled to 5.9% of all borough sales and accounted for 46% of all borough condo sales. The average square footage of a new development sales expanded 2.1% to 789 square feet from the same period last year. The number of all sales in the borough declined 2.7% to 3,302 from the prior year quarter, the second consecutive quarterly decline. The number of sales remained well above the quarterly average of 2,911 over the past decade. Listing inventory rose 5.2% to 4,193 over the same period, roughly half the 8,518-quarterly average over the past decade. With sliding sales and rising supply, the pace of the market eased but still remained historically fast. The absorption rate, the number of months to sell all inventory at the current rate of sales, slowed to 3.8 months from 3.5 months in the year-ago quarter. For context the average absorption rate over the past decade was 9.4 months, more than two and a half times slower. Days on market, the number of days between the date of the last list price change and the contract date, was 102 days, 3 days faster than the prior quarter. Listing discount, the percentage difference between the list price at the time of sale and the sales price tightened further, slipping to 1.4% from 2.1% in the prior-year quarter.
